HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS AND Hoofland's German Tonic. The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts,) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC, Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public. Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS. Those who have no objection to the combination of the bitters, as stated, will use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the tonic being the most palatable. The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc, is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathizing as it does with the stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, procuring only that which he is assured from his investigation and inquiries possesses true merit, is skillfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well known remedies—

Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public. These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Disease of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, its circulation becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE, And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an ally that will instil new life into their veins, reckon in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE. It is a well established fact that fully one half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; in fact, one or two their own expression, never feel well. They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN, Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail. Thousands of testimonials have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS. HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes: Philadelphia, March 18, 1867. "I find 'Hoofland's German Tonic,' useful in diseases and of great benefit in case of debility, and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly, GEO. W. WOODWARD."

HON. JAMES THOMPSON, Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Philadelphia, April 29, 1866. "I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON."

FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D., Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia. Dr. Jackson—Dear sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, have refused; but having satisfied myself by actual trial in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes. Yours, very respectfully, J. H. KENNARD, 1 Eighth, below Coates St.

FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL. Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia. I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver. Yours truly, E. D. FENDALL.

Charles M. Evans, Proprietor, Formerly C. M. JACKSON & CO.

PRICES. Hoofland's German Bitters, per bottle, $1 00; half dozen, 5 00. Hoofland's German Tonic, put up in quart bottles $1 50 per bottle, or a half dozen for $7 50. Do not forget to examine well the article you buy, in order to get the genuine. For sale by all Dealers in Medicine. April 2,1868-1y patron.

THE BLUE BELL.

There is a story I have heard,
A part learned it of a bird,
And kept music, word by word:

A story of a dim ravine,
O'er which the towering tree tops lean
With one blue rift of sky between:

And there, a thousand years ago,
A little flower as white as snow,
Swayed in the silence to and fro.

Day after day, with longing eye,
The floweret watched the narrow sky,
And fleecy clouds that floated by.

And through the darkness, night by night
A gloaming star would climb the height
And cheer the lonely floweret's sight.

Thus, watching in the heavens afar,
The rising of its favorite star,
A change came to the simple flower.

And softly o'er its petals white
There crept a blueness, like the light
Of skies upon a Summer night;

Then, in its chalice, as I'm told,
The bonnie bell was feund to hold
A tiny star that gleamed like gold;

And blue bells of the Scottish land
Are loved on every foreign strand,
Where stirs a Scottish heart or hand.

Now, little people fond and true,
I read a lesson here for you,
Within the floweret's bell of blue:

The patient child, whose watchful eye
Strives after all things pure and high,
Shall take their image by and by.

THE COMING GIRL.—She will vote, will be of some use in the world, will cook her own food, will earn her own living, and will not die an old maid. The coming girl will not wear the Grecian bend, dance the German, ignore all possibilities of knowing how to work, will not endeavor to break the hearts of unsophisticated young men, will spell correctly, understand English before she affects French, will preside with equal grace at the piano or washtub, will spin more yarn for the house than for the street, will not despise her plainly clad mother, her poor relations, or the hand of an honest worker; will wear a bonnet; speak good plain, unlisping English, will darn her own stockings; will know how to make doughnuts, and will not read the Ledger oftener than she does the Bible.

The coming girl will walk five miles a day, if need be, to keep her cheeks in a glow; will mind her health, her physical development and her mother; will adopt a costume both sensible and conducive to comfort and health; will not confound hypocrisy with politeness; will not place lying to please above frankness; will have courage to cut an unwelcome acquaintance; will not think refinement is French duplicity; that the assumed hospitality where hate dwells in the heart, is better than condemnation; will not confound grace of government with silly affection; will not regard the end of her being to have a beau.

The coming girl will not look to Paris, but to reason, for her fashions; will not aim to follow a foolish fashion because milliners and dressmakers decreed it; will not torture her body, shrivel her soul with puerilities, or ruin it, with wine and pleasure. In short the coming girl will seek to glorify her Maker and to enjoy mentally His works. Duty will be her aim and life a living reality.—Church Union.

MOURNING.—The New York Sunday Times thus answers a correspondent who inquires if white has ever been adopted anywhere as a mourning color;

Every nation has its own habits and customs on the subject, and some of them are droll enough to our ideas of propriety. At the present day, the Arabian women on the occasion of a death stain their hands and feet with indigo, which they suffer to remain eight days. They also carefully abstain from milk during this time, on the ground that its white color does not accord with their minds. In China the mourning color is white. Mourning for a parent or husband is required there by law, under a penalty of sixty blows and a year's banishment. When the Emperor dies, all his subjects let their hair grow for one hundred days. In the Feejee Islands, on the tenth day of mourning, the women scourge all the men except the highest. Another fashionable custom there requires the friends and relatives of the deceased to assemble on the fourth day after the funeral, and picture to themselves the amount of corruption the corpse has sustained by that time. In the Sandwich Islands persons desirous of going into mourning paint the lower part of their faces black, and knock out their front teeth.

☞ Every student of climatology is familiar with the effect of the Gulf stream upon the islands of Great Britain and the Continent of Europe. The "Physical Geography of the Sea," by Maury, first touched upon the warm water currents of the Pacific, and attributed the peculiar isotherms of the western portion of our continent to their influence. Subsequent observations all tended to the support of his theories, and now the Kuro Siwo, or Japan Current, is as strictly demarked as the Gulf Stream of the Atlantic and its effect upon climate are as easily demonstrated, if not already as well ascertained. The Kuro Siwo results from two currents of heated water from the Indian Ocean, one passing through the Straits of Malacca and the China Sea, and the other skirting the eastern coast of the Philippine Islands, at the northern extremity of which they unite opposite the Japan Islands; this united current again divides its main branch, tending northeast, strikes our Pacific coast about midway between Vancouver's Island and the Sitka. The waters of this current are four or five degrees warmer than those that surrounds them. This current accounts for the fact that Puget Sound is on a climate par with New York.

GRANT AS PRESIDENT.

New Anecdotes About Him from an Authentic Source---His Inauguration and Probable Course.

All eyes turn for all news toward the name which signed all the victorious news from the seat of war.

Grant's Last Private Days.

General Grant shows in some small preparations his consciousness of the great official period coming to him.—He is making visits to some few cherished friends before taking the oath and accepting the honors that bind the magistrate. Mrs. Grant's carriage is the most sensible and beautiful one to be found—light in construction, of a rare brown color in the body, and her coachman's cloak matches the same color. General Grant is more particular, and more thoroughly civilian in his dress than he was, wearing a suit of black, which is a gentleman's only steadfast hue, and with it a stiff dress hat, the latter improving his height. His manners are unchanging, and his associations here are of only the most trusted and worthy character.

Grant's Confidence.

A gentleman was relating to me some days ago General Hillyer's reminiscences of Grant, and there is one that applies to the President elect.—Hillyer had been a staff officer with the General, and he resigned after the fall of Vicksburg. Rejoining Grant again for a visit after he came East, Hillyer accompanied him to Culpepper, where the General assumed command of all the armies.

"Hillyer," said Grant, "I think I should have failed in this position if I had come to it in the beginning, because I should not have had confidence enough. You see I have come through all the grades of the service—captain, colonel, brigade, division, corps, army—and I am confident in myself now.—McClellan's misfortune, I always believed, was in his clearing all the grades at once and feeling a want of this great and absolute responsibility."

This anecdote, whether true or not, very characteristic of Grant's simple retrospections, gives us comfort in the higher and popular promotion he has just received, for, since Culpepper, he has been made General and Secretary of War; his experience has inclined toward civil, administrative and political duties, from grade to grade, conquering them as he advanced in the army. And this rare advantage he has had, that his promotion has been rapid as well as experimental, so that he knows all the active men and minds of the present generation only—not like Buchanan, living in two or three dead generations of statesmen and very little in the present; but all his life is of this incoming time, and he knows the material of it probably better than any living American.

Some days after hearing this anecdote I met General Hillyer by accident, and, Grant being always a problem to me, I asked his former staff officer's solution of some points.

The Staff of General Grant.

Hillyer lived in St. Louis when Grant left his little farm near by to enter the firm of "Boggs & Grant, Real Estate Agents, Houses to Rent." In those days he had a desk, I believe, in Hillyer's law office.

"Was the General silent then as now?"

"No. We considered him more than commonly talkative. So he is now; but he won't talk for effect, nor before strangers freely. This reticence of Grant, so much made of, is partly discrimination and partly the form of an old bashfulness he had when a boy.—Anybody whom he knows can hear him speak at any time.

"In St. Louis I liked Grant. He was entertaining, and I was attracted towards him by what I hardly knew at that time. Afterwards I knew it to be manhood, the same that he developed in battle so well. I was in New York when I heard of his appointment, and soon afterwards came a telegraph message to join his staff. I was at the Planter's House in Saint Louis on business soon afterwards, and wishing to see Grant he rode up during the day with some of his staff officers, and they had one empty horse.

"'Here, Hillyer,' said Grant, 'here's your horses. The boat has been waiting for me three quarters of hour. Stir yourself!'

"'I am not going, Grant. I never entertained the notion minute in earnest.'

"'Come along! I can't listen to that. Time presses!'

"'But I have not written to my wife.'

"'Well! that you had better do.—After this next action I am going into you can come home—if you don't get your head knocked off first—and fix up your business!'"

In brief, Hillyer found himself going down the river in ten minutes, to his own bewilderment, wondering greatly whether he could stand up for action. Perhaps in this way Grant will impress into his Cabinet some unwilling talent, if there be any talent unwilling to go into the Cabinet. I have not seen any of this latter sort.

"Did you notice any strong traits of character in Grant soon afterward?"

"His courage and soldierly vanity in action, first struck me, and his entire willingness to fight. He never talked before action, as if he had any personal forebodings, but grew more cheerful and concentrated as the time of battle approached. His indisposition to leave any position he had taken was often uncomfortable. I remember at Pittsburg Landing that he, Rawlings, myself and some other staff officers were in a place where the artillery of the enemy was concentrated. Their fire was terrible, and every instant I expected to have my head shot off. Grant sat on horseback, straight and cheerful, as you have sometimes seen a man of a hot day go out to be rained on, rather enjoying it. He kept us all in half agony. One officer said to me:—

"'No! Tell him yourself. He'll think me afraid, and so I am, but he shan't think so.'

There we sat, the fire crossing upon us. At last one of the green members of the staff rode up to Grant, saying:—

"'General, we must leave this place. It isn't necessary to stay right here. If we do we shall all be dead in five minutes.'

"'I guess that's so!' said Grant, and he rode away, to our relief.

"As to fear," continued Hillyer, "Grant used to say that he had seen men who said they never knew what it was, but he had never seen anybody who said it of them. Another thing that struck me with Grant was his own attempt frequently to supersede his own good luck. At Donaldson he went to Commodore Foote and begged him to run past the rebel guns with a gunboat or two. Foote replied, saying that would be shot to pieces. Grant maintained that he would suffer no more than in ordinary bombardment. This took place before Farragut made a practical demonstration of Grant's theory. Now, if Foote had done this, the rebels would have evacuated Fort Donelson, and the battle and capture there which made Grant historic would never have happened.

"Grant developed wonderfully in the war, and though I, as a democrat, opposed his election, I had no doubt that he was the safe, strong man, worthiest to head the army. There is needed no better instance or proof to this effect than the following:—I was at City Point in 1865, and sitting close by Grant I saw him break the seal of a letter. Then he smiled, good naturedly.

"'What's that, General Grant?'

"'A letter from Sherman. Read it!'

"I read the letter, and it said that Sherman could no longer hold Atlanta, his line being too long. He asked permission to destroy the town and move to the sea, subsisting upon the country and turning at bay to fight Hood whenever the latter pursued him too closely. All this seemed brilliant and soldierly to me, and I asked Grant what in it made him laugh.

"'Why,' he said, 'I was wondering what Hood could find to subsist upon if he followed in the rear of Sherman.'

"This was the general supplying an error of genius. Sherman supposed that Hood would follow him. Grant knew that Hood could not eat off the barren and devastated country. So he sent this word to Sherman:—'You have my permission to destroy Atlanta and march to the sea after you detach Schofield and —— to go to Tennessee. Hood will not follow you; he will march upon Nashville.' Now see! Had Sherman carried off his whole force seaward, mistaking the effect of his movement upon Hood, Nashville would have fallen, Indiana and Ohio been invaded and the Southern Confederacy been an accomplished fact."

"Grant," said Hillyer, "is stern as Jupiter. There is no finer story of two stern men than Grant and George H. Thomas before the battle of Nashville. Thomas has a dislike of being whipped, and he is cautious and sedate to the last degree till the time for decision has come. Grant sent word to Thomas to move out of his works and attack Hood. Thomas was not ready, and he went on deliberately with his preparations. Grant telegraphed again;—'The country is excited. Attack!' Thomas was not yet quite ready. Then Grant sent John A. Logan to Louisville to be ready to take command and telegraphed again: 'If you do not attack Hood before —— date, I shall be under the painful necessity of relieving you.' Just at that time Thomas was ready, not by necessity, but by the completion of his affairs, and the happy collusion of events made the battle of Nashville an honor to both."

Grant's Inauguration.

The inauguration will be held on the east front of the Capitol, in the immemorial place. It will be I think, a solid sort of inauguration, with less procession and fanfaronade than has been expected.

☞ "Fellow citizens," said a stump orator, "we have the best country in the world, and the best government. No people on the face of the globe enjoy more privileges than we do. We have the liberty of the press without onerous despotism. What, fellow citizens, is more desirable than this?—Can you want anything more, my countrymen?" "Yes, siree!" shouted a listener; "I want a suck of that ere flask sticking out of your coat pocket behind."

☞ A new story of Robert Hall is going the rounds of the English papers, to the effect that one of his congregation took him to task for not preaching more frequently on predestination. Hall was very indignant.—He looked steadily at his censor for a moment and replied: "Sir, I perceive you are predestined to be an ass; and what is more, I see that you are determined to make your calling and election sure."

☞ A native Boston youth accosted a boy of decided African lineage a few days since, and inquired of the sable lad why he had so short a nose. The reply was, "I spects so it won't poke itself into other people's business."

TRIAL OF JEFF. DAVIS AND OTHERS AT RICHMOND, VA.—In the United States District Court, the District Attorney under instructions from the Attorney General, in accordance with President Johnson's Amnesty Proclamation, entered a nolle prosequi in both indictments against Jefferson Davis, and in those against Lee, Wade Hampton, Breckinridge, Longstreet, Wise, Pryor, Sedden, Mahone, Early and 30 others. On motion of Robert Ould the Court ordered that the securities on Davis's bail bond be discharged from further consideration.

TAXATION.—That a rebel should hate those who lent our Government money to be used in putting done the Slaveholders' Rebellion, is a matter of course In crushing the Rebellion, that money powerfully aided to crush the hopes and blight the fairer prospects of Sham Democracy. The news of Sheridan's victory at Five Forks, and of Richmond's consequent surrender, reached Connecticut as her people were going to the polls (April, '65) and reduced the Democratic vote from 42,285 to 31,339, sending up the Republican majority from 2,406 to 11,035. "There you, and I, and all of us fell down," says Marc Anthony, lamenting the death of Cæsar. Of course, a Sham Democrat hates the National Debt, and, if he be a bold scoundrel, he proposes its outright repudiation, if a sneaking one, he talks of razeeing and compromising it. But the more usual and adroit fashion is not to assail it directly, but denounce and defame, generally and specially, the taxes whereby it is and must be paid, if paid at all. The intelligent know that we cannot shoulder such a Debt without heavy taxation—that to denounce the taxes means resistance to the payment of the Debt.

Legislative Extravagance.

For some weeks past a great deal has been said in regard to the extravagance of the Legislature. Whilst we have said but little about the matter, we have been under the impression that if editors understood the matter properly, perhaps they would have been less eager to attack the present Legislature in such an unmerciful manner. We are just as much opposed to corruption and fraud as any other journalists in the State, and do not wish to be considered the apologists of any man or body of men who encourage or invite extravagance at the public expense. We have taken the trouble to ascertain the facts concerning matters at Harrisburg, and find that whilst forty-six pasters and folders were employed last, only 20 are employed this session. Last session the pay of pasters and folders averaged $950—the present winter they receive but $600 and no mileage allowed. Last winter 12 pages were employed at a salary of $200 and this winter 14 pages, at a salary of $100 each. This is retrenchment and reform in the right direction as far as it goes. It must be remembered too, that the salaries of Clerks, Sergeant-at-arms, Door-keepers and Postmasters have been very materially reduced. Last year, 107 officers of all grades, including pages, were employed in the House; this year but eighty-two are employed by the same body—a reduction of 25 officers which is about as much as we can reasonably expect in one year. Reforms of this nature cannot be effected at once, and instead of assailing the members in such a savage manner, we should encourage them in the good work, and next winter we may be able to get a reduction of 25 more. Another source of squandering the public money—a "fat take"—is the Legislative Record, which costs the State annually between $30,000 and $40,000. Abolish the Record, a publication of no earthly use to the people of the State, for the Journal answers all practical purposes, and we do away with the pasters and folders. Many other reforms might be got at, if we would only go at them in the right way, and which, must eventually be reached, if we desire to keep the Republican party in the ascendency. As we said before, we are not the apologists of the members of the Legislature, but we think they have been unjustly assailed in many respects, for we know there are some honest members in the House.

General Grant Officially Notified of His Election.

The joint committee appointed to wait upon General Grant and notify him of his election as President of the United States, discharged the duty assigned to them on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, at the army headquarters.

Governor Morton, Chairman of the Committee, addressed Grant, announcing that they had been appointed as a committee on the part of Congress to present him with his commission as President. He said the result of the election had been extremely gratifying and the people firmly believed that he would bring to the discharge of the duties of his high office the same energy, integrity, and patriotism that had characterized him in his former sphere of usefulness.

"I can promise the committee that it will be my endeavor to call around me as assistants such men only as I think will carry out the principles which you have said the country desires to be successful—economy, retrenchment, faithful collections of the revenue and payment of the public debt. If I should fail in my first choice I shall not at any time hesitate to make a second, or even a third trial, with the concurrence of the Senate, who have the confirming power. I should just as soon remove one of my own appointees as the appointees of my predecessor; it would make no difference. There is one matter that I might possibly speak of here, and that is the selection of a cabinet. I have always felt that it would be rather indelicate to announce or even to consult with the gentlemen whom I thought of inviting to positions in my Cabinet before the official declaration of the result of the election was made, although I presumed that there was no doubt about what the declaration would be. But after consideration I have come to the conclusion that there is not a man in the country who could be invited to a place in the Cabinet, without the friends of some other gentleman making an effort to secure the position; not that there would be any objection to the party named, but that there would be others whom they had set their hearts upon having in the place. I can tell that from the great number of requests which come to me in writing and otherwise for this particular person or that one, from different sets and delegations.—If announced in advance, efforts would be made to change my determination, and therefore I have come to the conclusion not to announce whom I am going to invite to seats in the Cabinet until I send in their names to the Senate for confirmation. If I say anything to them about it, it will certainly not be more than two or three days previous to sending in their names. I think it well to make a public declaration of this to the committee, so that my intention may be known."

At the conclusion of Gen. Grant's remarks Mr. Pruyn stepped forward and said:

"General: In the great principles which you have marked out for the conduct of your administration, you will have the practical support of those with whom I am associated, ready to act with you."

Gen. Grant made no response to this, beyond bowing his thanks. The committee and most of the gentlemen present then shook hands with him and retired.

They afterwards waited upon Mr. Colfax at the Capitol, and were received in the Speaker's room. A similar notification was handed him by Mr. Wilson, when he handed to the committee his response in writing, as follows:

"Gentlemen: Please convey to the two Houses of Congress my acceptance of the office to which I have been elected by the people of the United States, and assure them that I shall endeavor to prove worthy of this mark of confidence by fidelity to principle and duty."

This ended the ceremony.

A correspondent of the Woonsocket Patriot says that General Cyrus B. Comstock, Major of Engineers, U. S. A., the member of General Grant's staff who was married the other day to a daughter of Hon. Montgomery Blair, is a native of West Wrentham, and used to cart wood to Woonsocket, 20 years ago. He was appointed a cadet by Horace Mann, in 1851, and his career has been honorable and upward ever since. "Wood carters" are men of grit and brain, if we may judge by the illustrious characters before us.—Grant used to sell wood at Springfield, and it is said delights yet to recognize his old customers who bought the article by the cord from his wagon.

The generalissimo of the "Pendleton escort" has just recovered from a prominent Democrat at Cincinnati a judgment for twenty-five dollars, his initiation fee as a stay-at-home member of the organization.

☞The National Debt is officially reported at $2,556,205,658, showing an apparent increase of over Fifteen Millions during January. All know that this is occasioned by the payment, on the 1st of January, of six months' interest on a large portion of the Debt, and that most of the apparent increase is as illusory as was the decrease reported for December, when little or no interest was paid. Still the fact remains that we owe more and have less cash on hand than a month ago, and that the issue of new bonds to the Central line of Pacific Railroad is keeping the market gorged with Government securities at prices far below their real value, and that we are constantly importing fabrics and gewgaws that we ought to do without, and meeting the bills by exporting and selling at twenty per cent. discount six per cent. bonds which our children and grandchildren will have to pay. This cannot always go on, and should be stopped at once. Men in Congress! what do you propose to do about it?—N. Y. Tribune.

National and State Legislatures.

CONGRESS.

In the House under the call of States for bills and joint resolutions a number were introduced and referred.

Tuesday—In the Senate the discussion on the constitutional amendment was continued all Monday night and up to 11.30 A. M. to day, when the Senate took a short recess. At 12 o'clock the Senate reassembled, and, after a vigorous fight, at last passed the joint resolution, by a vote of 40 yeas to 16 nays. It went to the House for concurrence.

In the House among the bills referred was one to compensate the officers and crew of the Kearsage for the destruction of the Alabama.

Wednesday—At 12.55 P. M. the Senate proceeded to the House for the purpose of counting the electoral vote for President and Vice President. At 4.45 the Senators returned to the chamber, and adopted a resolution appointing a member of the Senate and two Representatives a joint committee of three to wait on General Grant and Schuyler Colfax, and inform them of their election.

In the House at 12 40 a privileged resolution was offered and adopted, informing the Senate that the House was ready to receive that body for the purpose of proceeding to open the boxes of the elections of the several States for President and Vice President of the United States. The Senators soon after entered, and Senator Wade, presiding officer of the Senate, took the Speaker's chair, and the business of counting the votes was immediately proceeded with. There was great excitement, caused by objections to the reception of the votes of Louisiana and Georgia. Amid much confusion and appeals from the decisions of the presiding officer, the votes were counted and General Grant and Speaker Colfax declared duly elected President and Vice-President of the United States respectively. After the withdrawal of the Senate, General Butler introduced a resolution relative to the breach of privileges on the part of the Senate. Adjourned.

Thursday—The Committee on Military Affairs reported favorably a bill respecting payment of State war claims. The currency bill was discussed.

In the House the resolution protesting that the counting of the vote of Georgia, by order of the Vice President, was a gross act of oppression and invasion of the rights and privileges of the House, gave rise to a protracted and animated debate, but was not disposed of.

LEGISLATURE.

Tuesday.—A number of local bills were introduced in both houses.

Wednesday.—The Senate bill to erect a new county out of parts of the counties of Crawford, Venango, Forest and Warren, to be called Petroleum, was discussed.

In the House the chairman of the committee on Ways and Means reported the annual bill providing for the ordinary expenses of the Government, making a total of $3,926,118.

Thursday.—In the Senate the Metropolitan Police Board for Philadelphia, was reported favorably from committee. The bill creating the new county of Petroleum, was passed finally. In the House the Judiciary Committee reported favorably an act authorizing the Governor to commute the death penalty to imprisonment. Among the bills read and referred was one authorizing bank officials to open all packages left on special or secret deposit; one repealing the State tax upon salaries exceeding $200.

Brief Items.

The valentine business is brisk hereaway.

The Episcopalians of Bellefonte intend building a church to cost $30,000.

The State Temperance convention will be held at Harrisburg next Monday.

Hollidaysburg is the only town about this latitude that enjoyed cold weather this month.

We want a local correspondent from every part of the county. Tell us what you know.

The credit system is aptly termed the "down grade" in business.

Blair county will vote for or against the Crawford county system on the 19th inst.

If you want to help a paper, always pay your subscription in advance, and you will be happy.

A man in Cumberland rode ten miles to see the eclipse of the moon, and then the clouds cheated him.

Jacob Hoffman has sold his tannery at Mt. Union to Messrs. Lupfer & Co., of Perry Co., for $17,500.

The owners of Mt. Union Furnace intend building eight dwellings in that place for the use of their employees.

390,890 freight cars passed Mifflin in the year 1868, of which 240,487 were loaded and 150,403 empty.

The audiences of Johnstown, we think, are more given to stamping with their feet than to stamp-giving.

The Huntingdon Gift Enterprises are becoming known far and near. Massey & Co's still ahead as far as heard from.

Velocipede candy is now sold. The manufacturer gives notice that it is not "worked by the feet."

The merchant who does a general credit business, to save himself must make his good customers pay what he loses with his bad ones

A fire broke out in the Catholic Church of Lewistown recently, but was soon extinguished. The fire originated from a stove.

Our Lewistown and other exchanges are full of public sale advertisements. They do not publish five line locals will account for it.

The store of Patterson & Weight, at Yellow Springs, Blair county, was burned on Tuesday morning, the 9th inst. Insurance $6,000.

A man came to Bedford recently with over 900 lbs. of honey. We did not know there was so much sweetness in that Democratic stronghold.

The Harrisburg Editorial convention is pronounced by editors who attended it as a burlesque and a fizzle. Glad we weren't there.

The firemen of Altoona had a parade recently. From the number of fires in that locality, we supposed they had chances to show themselves to more useful advantage.

Julia Adams, of Lewistown, was poisoned by eating pieces of cheese containing arsenic that had been placed on the floor for the purpose of killing rats. The child recovered.

The publishers of the Bedford Gazette and Inquirer got $885.85 and $855.00 respectively for printing for that county last year. Our bill of $167.50 is small potatoes beside theirs.

A "local" thinks the reason that small newspapers are crowded with all kinds of advertisements is because their books are crowded with delinquent subscribers.

The man who buys supplies for his family on credit pays 25 per cent. more than a man who buys for cash. This is true as a general rule in business.

Monday next is Washington's birthday, and is a legal holiday. Perhaps our people have forgotten this natal day, therefore we let them know it.

The remains of Col. John D. Hicks were brought from Vidalia, Miss., and interred in the cemetery at Duncansville, Blair county, last week.

A citizen of this place has returned the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for running cars on the Sabbath day. The case will be argued at this court in April.

The editor of the Tyrone Herald laments the hardships of a country newspaper editor in a three-quarter column article. Peace be with him and all that are his.

The Philipsburg Journal says that high rents and want of enterprise will see that place the dullest, deadest place in Central Pennsylvania. That is a hint that is applicable to Huntingdon.

Mrs. Charlestown, of Bedford, totally blind from cataract in both eyes, and a sister of Dr. Henry of the same place, afflicted with the same disease for over thirty years, were restored by a Pittsburg doctor.

A fellow in New York who sent $1 for a music box that was advertised to play eight tunes, was surprised to receive a mouth-organ that costs about 25 cents. The fools are not all dead yet.

Between the 10th and 31st of January three persons in the western part of Bedford county fell on the ice and broke one or more of their limbs. Truly, we walk on slippery places.

We have all heard of gold weddings, silver weddings, etc., but the latest thing in this line is a molasses candy wedding. This occurs when the first baby gets old enough to lick.

A deer made its appearance in Tyrone the other week, when many of the citizens got after it with guns and revolvers The deer was killed, but one man was shot in the arm and another had a shot through his hat.

The steam engine was placed in the new furniture factory in West Huntingdon last week. It is twenty five horse power. It is likely that in one month's time operations will commence. So mote it be.

Another fire occurred at Altoona last week which destroyed the Vindicator printing office and a grocery store. Caused, as usual, by an incendiary. If Huntingdon has a fire more than once a week, we have a night-watch on every square. Has Altoona any?

The work of widening the Pennsylvania canal, we understand, has commenced. If Huntingdon is made the head of steamboat navigation, as we confidently anticipate it will be, then Huntingdon will be to Pennsylvania what Albany is to New York; and as Huntingdon is more central than Harrisburg there is no reason why it shouldn't be the Capital of the Commonwealth.

We have received a copy of the Owingsville (Ky.) Inquirer, published by S. K. Bangs and W. H. Boblitz, the latter of whom not many years ago was an apprentice in this office. They get up a spicy paper, and one very tastily and neatly printed. We wish the publishers more success than the name of their town would indicate that they are likely to receive.

Lecture.

The Romance of Cavalry Life; or Kilpatrick's great raid to Richmond to release our Prisoners. The tragic and comic phases of army life.

A lecture by Rev. Edward P. Roe, will be delivered in the Court House, Huntingdon, on Thursday evening, February 18, 1869, for the benefit of The Grand Army of the Republic.

Opinions of the lecture by those who have heard it:—"Your lecture of Kilpatrick's raid abounds in vivid pictures of military life, some most thrilling and some very amusing, and gives the blood and color which are generally, I must say always wanting to all the histories of the war which I have seen. I hope some day to see it in print. Hon. JOHN BIGELOW.
Late U. S. Minister to France and former Editor of N. Y. Evening Post.

"As I took part in the expedition described in Rev. E. P. Roe's lecture, I am familiar with the facts mentioned in his narrative, and can recommend it as an accurate and faithful description. H. E DAVIES, Jr.,
Late Maj. Gen. U. S. V.

Serious Affray at McConnellstown.

A young man named M. J. Houck, having entered Samuel Rupert's Grocery Store, in McConnellstown, Saturday evening, 13th inst, a quarrel arose between him and David Rupert, a brother of the proprietor. Report says that Houck went there with the intention of beating or killing Rupert. He knocked Rupert down, and Rupert having a knife in his hand with which he had been whittling, used it in his defence and cut Houck seriously in several places The lamps being broken and the stove knocked down, as the fight was in the dark and many others in the room at the time, considerable allowance must be made for discrepancy of reports. Rupert is in jail, and Houck it is thought will recover.

☞Miss Judith Russel, of New Bedford, writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using Plantation Bitters, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters. It

The Fish Bill Declared Unconstitutional

Judge Pearson, of Harrisburg, delivered an opinion on Monday morning last, declaring the law passed in 1866, requiring the Pa. Railroad Company to make sluices for the passage of fish in the dams along the Susquehanna, to be unconstitutional. So it seems we are not to have shad in the Juniata.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

LETTER FROM DUDLEY.

DUDLEY, PA., Feb. 9, 1869.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—This is a very enterprising town, on the H. & B. T. Railroad, and a great deal of business is transacted in it for its size, wealth and population. It has four stores, and among the first is the store of Cook, Sheets & Co., which is situated directly opposite the Dudley station, has a great deal of trade from the country, and has three roads connecting it with Broad Top City, Coalmont, and Fairplay, besides the Railroad. The work here is principally coal digging, which gives employment to a great many men and boys.

The Union church is a beautiful house of worship. It is not very large, but taking into consideration the number of its membership, it was a grand undertaking, and speaks well of those who undertook it. It is pleasantly situated, and from it you have an extensive view of the surrounding place.

The Roman Catholic church of Broad Top is built on a hill overlooking Barnetstown. Although frame it is a very fine building, and is capable of seating about one thousand persons. It has quite an excellent choir, composed principally of young ladies under the charge of Mr. Lawrence Mangan, who is entirely blind. Connected with the church is a burying ground and also a pastoral residence. The whole property is worth about thirty thousand dollars, and is clear of debt. The Pastor, Rev. Wm. A. Nolan, is a profound scholar, and has fine conversational powers. During his stay here he has been the means of adding greatly to the beauty of the interior of the church.

Yours truly,
CARBON.

JUNIATA IRON WORKS,
February 10, 1869.

Dear Globe: In your issue of to-day I notice an item, credited to the State Guard, under the head of "Despicable," charging "a heartless Thug, an employee of Juniata Iron Works," with having caught, killed and eaten, one of the Lake Bass which were placed in the Juniata river some months ago by Rev. Mr. Love. Now the informant of the State Guard should have been very certain that his charge was well founded, before he made such a positive assertion against any one, and I must say, his attempt, by insinuation, to fling the above epithet in the face of the employees of Juniata Iron Works, was to say the least, "heartless," even if his assertion was true, which it is not. What then are the facts? From careful inquiry they appear to be these. A gentleman of Alexandria, it seems, purchased a Lake Bass in the city of Philadelphia, and bringing it home, it is supposed he appropriated it to the use of his own table; and as the intelligent reporter of the State Guard is careful to inform us, the heartless "Thug" killed and cleaned the fish before he ate it, it is presumed this gentleman did not taste his fish alive, and quite likely he had it cleaned also, for the head of said fish was exhibited around town by some boys during the evening. Now from all we can learn this fish-head was the origin of the great fish (tail,) tale of the State Guard: The intelligent reporter seeing a Bass head, jumps at the conclusion that it must be one of the Juniata Bass, and by another jump, just as reckless, he aims at the (to him) satisfactory conclusion, that an employee of Juniata Iron Works must have caught it. Now, it is due to the said employees to say, that it is as unlikely that any of them would be guilty of such an act of vandalism, as any other order-loving citizens. They have ways been able to supply their tables by the honest labor of their toil-worn hands; and further, they have always been willing, and liberal contributors to the deserving poor—so much for the charge of heartlessness. Now we will say that there is not a man, woman or child at Juniata Works that is "Despicable" enough to originate such a palpable falsehood on any of their neighbors and give it publicity through the journals of the day. No one but a heartless Thug would murder character in that way. We hope that little misled man, the reporter to the State Guard, will recall the notice. Will the State Guard please copy, and oblige

SPECIAL NOTICES.

NO NAME.

It is a common thing now-a-days to hear persons complain about their physical disabilities which bring so much discomfort to both mind and body, that they find no gratification in anything around them. One has no satisfying rest at night, another is always peevish and despondent, still another takes no delight in society, and others again find no compensating pleasures in labor, exercise or even life. No name is given in pathology for their ailments, nevertheless the causes are always present. They simply lack vital power, and Prof. Baker says that "the best remedy for this class is MISHLAU'S HERB BITTERS," which he has used for several years, and with uniform success," as it tones the Stomach and Liver—the seat of the complaint—and reconstructs the shattered constitution. This vitalizing tonic speedily removes the cause of languor and discontent, imparts a calm force to the nervous system, rouses the dormant organs of the body, and blesses the sufferer with perfect and lasting health. feb9

TO THE PEOPLE OF HUNTINGDON COUNTY.

HUNTINGDON, December 23, 1868.

As there appears to be considerable trouble about who shall be appointed Post Master in our town, and it being an office for which the person who may be appointed, should contribute a liberal amount to some charitable purpose, I therefore offer myself as an applicant for the position of Post-Master at Huntingdon, Pa; and I propose and will agree, giving my bond with the Commissioners of Huntingdon county for the fulfillment of the same, should I be appointed, to erect a Monument for deceased soldiers, for the sum of Two Thousand Dollars; provided I am allowed to hold the office for the term of four years. Soldiers in the county, or the friends of our deceased soldiers, will confer a favor by circulating a petition in my behalf, and send the same to me.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

An Important Discovery for Converting Crude into Wrought Iron.

The following article which we clip from a late number of the Pittsburgh Post, descriptive of the Ellershausen process of making iron, which has recently excited so much interest and comment among iron men, will be read with interest by our manufacturers, particularly as Messrs. Shoenberger, Blair & Co., tried the experiment also at Huntingdon Furnace, in this county, of which they are proprietors. The Post says:

At the invitation of the patentee, Fras. Ellershausen, Esq., we visited the iron works of Messrs. Shoenberger, Blair & Co., corner of Pike and Adams streets, yesterday, and witnessed an exhibition of what is known as the Ellershausen process, which has been in use here for some time. This process is being generally introduced throughout the country, and, wherever tested, is inevitably adopted.

This process, by mingling granulated iron ore with the liquid ore as it leaves the smelting furnace, converts the mass into wrought iron of a quality that admits immediate application to manufacturing purposes. The manner in which the operation is conducted is simple, convenient, speedy and economical—features that in this progressive age are of paramount importance. On the floor of the casting house is erected a cast-iron turn table, consisting of a flat rim, say two feet wide, which revolves on rollers. The top of the rim is divided into box-shaped partitions, rising at right angles some ten inches high, having a similar width at the outer edge of the rim, but enlarged slightly on the inside, and open at the top, forming a quadrangular mould. The table is revolved by a small steam engine. The stream of molten iron flows from the tap hole of the smelting furnace, thro' a spout, whose wide mouth is directly above the revolving moulds, into which the liquid pours. The partitions receive a mass of liquid at each revolution, and the mass forms a strata or layer say one-eighth of an inch thick; but before the fall of melted iron reaches the boxes, it is crossed at right angles by a thin fall of pulverized iron ore, which also runs out of a wide spout from a reservoir above. These two streams or falls are about of equal volume, say one-quarter of an inch deep and twenty inches wide. A workman, with a bar in the tap hole, regulates the stream of iron, and the iron spout from which the liquid metal falls into the boxes can be removed, and other spouts, previously coated with loam and dried, attached to a common revolving frame can be substituted when the loam covering the first becomes cracked or removed.

The thin layers of iron and ore soon chill and solidify, so that by taking away the other partition of the boxes (which form the rim of the turn table) they may be removed in cakes of the size of the boxes, and weighing about 200 lbs. each. Four of these cakes or blooms are put into a reverbatory puddling or heating furnace, and raised to a bright yellow heat. They will not melt at this heat, but become softened so as to be easily broken up with a bar. The four blooms are formed in the furnace by the "rabble" of the workman, as in ordinary puddling operations, into eight balls. The balls are brought out, one after another, squeezed in the ordinary "squeezers" to expel the cinder and superfluous ore, and then rolled into wrought iron bars, which are now ready for market, or for further reduction into smaller finished forms.

The chemistry of the operation, says the New York Times, is as follows:—"In the Bessemer process, the oxygen of the air, blown into the liquid iron, combines with this iron and these other impurities, and not only removes them, but leaves the pure iron in a liquid state, from which it can be cast into homogenious masses of any size. In the puddling process, the oxygen of the air and of the ore or other "fettling" put into the furnace with the iron, combines with and culminates the impurities, which are afterwards squeezed out of the pasty mass by the squeezers and rolls. This process is long and comparatively expensive, because the mixture or oxygen bearing substance is not made intimate with the iron except by long stirring, which is not only skillful, but exhaustive work.

In the Ellershausen process the oxygen of the ore or oxide of iron combines with the carbon and impurities, eliminating them as in the puddling process, and the iron of the ore increases the product. The chemical combination of the ore and the liquid crude iron appears to take place partly at the time of their contact when falling and lying upon the turn tables, and partly where the reheating occurs in the furnace.

The remarkable feature of the Ellershausen process is, that absolutely no skill is required to carry it out—The proportion of ore mixed is intended to be about thirty per cent., but if too much is added, it is readily squeezed out with the slag, and seems to do no harm. The subsequent heating occupies about half an hour. 'Puddle bar,' the product obtained from the first rolling of the puddling furnace is never marketable for finished iron. It is usually very ragged and unsound, and requires subsequent piling, reheating and re-rolling, to expel the impurities, and to give it soundness and solidity."

This process is said to economize from $10 to $80 per ton, and from the experiments that are being daily made at the works of Messrs. Shoenberger, Blair & Co., it is safe to infer its general application where the products of wrought iron are required. The modus operandi is so simple that like the results of "Newton's apple", it is a matter of surprise that it was not discovered before.

☞ If an American woman has two or three children, she is commiserated by her friends, and the simpletons wonder how she ever gets along with "such a monstrous family!" She finally wonders too, and a servant girl must be hired to ease the burden from the overloaded mother's shoulders. Alas, that it is so true!

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, has rendered it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time so perfectly adapted to the most distressing that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgement we receive of the rapid cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world.

McGUIRE'S

SPANISH HAIR DRESSER

For PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR, And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries. No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S

Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances. This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S

WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and ornamental manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them.

Warranted satisfactory or money refunded. Dealers will bear this in mind. Sold by all respectable Druggists in the United States and Canadas. Address orders to
